Utah School and Institutional Trust Lands Administration will receive $2 million from purchase of land for nuclear plant site

Salt Lake City, UT - Transition Power Development LLC. Company CEO Aaron Tilton and President Tom Retson announced today that the Utah School and Institutional Trust Lands Administration (SITLA) would receive about $2 million from the purchase of the recently escrowed 1,500 acres in the Green River Industrial Park. Transition Power Development LLC (“TPD”) is a specialized enterprise dedicated to facilitating deployment of new nuclear power generation.

“It is important for us as a company to benefit the local and state community in as many ways as possible. One significant reason this site was appealing for us is that the proceeds from the sale of the land would benefit the Utah public school system.” Retson commented.

About Transition Power Development
